ABOUT AEAC

The Aerial Evolution Association of Canada (AEAC) stands as Canada's premier national industry association, dedicated to propelling the commercial drone and remotely piloted aircraft systems (RPAS) technology sector forward. With a rich history spanning two decades, AEAC, formerly known as Unmanned Vehicle Systems Canada and Unmanned Systems Canada, has steadfastly supported the RPAS industry both domestically and globally.

Our Mission

At the Aerial Evolution Association of Canada (AEAC), our mission is to lead the advancement of Canada's commercial drone and remotely piloted aircraft systems (RPAS) sector by championing four core pillars: RPAS Operators, Research, Manufacturing, and RPAS Services Support.

We bring together industry, academia, government, and innovators to foster sustainable growth, accelerate commercialization, and strengthen Canada's global leadership in aerospace innovation. Through advocacy, education, outreach, and collaboration, we drive investment, innovation, and opportunity in every region of the country.

Our Vision

We envision a future where RPAS technology empowers Canada to thrive—economically, socially, and environmentally. AEAC is committed to unlocking the full potential of aerial innovation, positioning Canada as a global leader in the responsible and transformative use of RPAS. Together, we will build a stronger, more connected, and forward-thinking nation—one that leads with vision, adapts with purpose, and evolves through collaboration.

Join Us

Be part of the evolution. Join AEAC and help shape the future of RPAS in Canada. Whether you're a start-up, researcher, policymaker, or pilot—your voice matters. Together, we can drive innovation, support Canadian competitiveness, and build an industry that reflects the values and potential of this great country.
